

Dr. Harald Sander is Professor of Economics and International Economics at Technische Hochschule Köln where he holds a European Union sponsored Jean Monnet Chair “Europe in the Global Economy”. He is also the director of the Institute of Global Business and Society (GLOBUS) at TH Köln. He specializes in international economics and has published numerous articles in leading journals. More recently he has developed a new research and research-based teaching focus on eco-innovation in the global economy and has participated with GLOBUS in a TH Köln research network on the water-energy-food-security nexus.